part of the engaging part at a second one of the plurality of the second side faces is formed as a notch in order for the caulking part to be inserted in the combination as claimed.

Claims 17 and 19 allowed because none of the prior art references of record teaches a method for manufacturing a liquid cartridge comprising the steps of providing a liquid container including a caulking part that is formed at a container body of the liquid cartridge or a lid and is inserted into a penetrating part in order for a tip part of the caulking part to be caulked; wherein the engaging part, penetrating part or the caulking part are respectively provided at a plurality of second side faces adjacent to a first side face of the container body, wherein the penetrating part of the engaging part at a second one of the plurality of the second side faces is formed as a notch in order for the caulking part to be inserted and of deforming the tip part of the caulking part with heat to perform caulking in the combination as claimed.
